QUIET, PLEASE

It must be a sign of the country's approach to maturity that so many of its communities are trying to do something about avoidable noise. The idea that promotion of quiet is not only desirable but feasible has taken root and is spreading.

New York City's anti-noise campaign naturally is getting the most attention because it is taking place in one of the world's noise centers. The metropolis is learning things in its campaign which will become the lessons of experience for other communities.

For instance, it has been reminded that a noise campaign, to be effective, must attack more than noise, which frequently is the result as well as the cause of annoyance. Motorists do not blow horns without provocation. Therefore, the provocation must be considered.

Much noise, of course, is thoughtless, and it is this type of annoyance which can be outlawed without complications. Garbage and ash cans do not need to be flung to the pavement. Radios do not need to be tuned loud enough to entertain a neighborhood. Automobile horns do not need to be substituted for doorbells.

In the course of half a century cities may have worked out regulations effectively controlling avoidable noise. A beginning has been made and an attitude is becoming established. The United States, as it becomes more settled in its ways, will turn again to blataney as the sign of its adolescence.

ASSORTED MYSTERIES

European developments are coming too rapidly to be assimilated. Americans, still in the position of interested but impartial spectators, are full of questions for which there are no satisfactory answers.

Why does Italy seem to vacillate between determination to invade Ethiopia at any cost and willingness to abandon aggression for peaceful settlement? Is Premier Mussolini still open to the possibility of compromise?

What does Italy see in Ethiopia worth the cost of military campaign which threatens, besides its direct cost, to precipitate chaos at home? Is its preparation for the campaign really dictated by economic necessity, is it dictated by political necessity, or is it a manifestation of Benito Mussolini's well advertised blood and iron philosophy?

What justifies Italy's defiance of the powerful British navy? Could Italy expect to hold its own with Britain in naval combat without allies, and what allies could there be? Furthermore, what is Great Britain's motive for making an overt display of its naval power in the Mediterranean? Is the British government interested in preserving peace, or is it interested in preserving its prestige and territories at the possible price of breaking the peace?

Is Premier Mussolini a super-statesman capable of out-thinking other governments—a man who has plotted in advance the moves he now is making—or is he a dictator whose development of a mighty military machine has given him delusions of power impelling him toward a catastrophe he does not foresee?

Possibly, by the time answers to questions like these are available, the Italo-Ethiopian crisis will be a matter of dying soldiers and international complications that will confuse even more the querulous minds of those who are seeking answers. Yet, there still is a possibility the answers may be given in an atmosphere of relief over a crisis dissolved by factors whose power in the midst of so much confusion can only be guessed, not defined.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—Papa Moneta's culinary shrine is along a tumbling stretch of Mulberry street in the seethe of the Italian quarter and off a hip of Chinatown. Across the street, in one of those triangular slum breathing spots, Chinese, Italian and other foreign born children frolic the day long.

Surrounding windows frame faces of tired women on their "leaning cushions." Every block, almost, has its black mustache, velvet tanned basket salesman of religious statuary. From an occasional cellar floats the strains of accomplished accordions and vicarious Rigoletti quartettes.

The standardized foreign tenement quarter the world over. Yet into this squalor Papa Moneta brings New York's most discriminating gourmets. Through his little green canopied doorway come such regulars as Frank Crowninshield, Ben Ali Haggin, George Jean Nathan and Achmed Abuliah.

Moneta's has the unpretentious charm that distinguished red brick Voisin's in the rue Cambon. Pin neat but not showy. There are no chatoyant divans, chromium edges and swoops of mirrors. It might be a restaurant of the '80's. Neither is it over crowded. Better restaurants of the world seldom are.

A gentleman of importance writes me of restoring his thinning hair to former luxuriance after many false starts. His recipe: An English whalebone bristled brush, 100 strokes a day, then rub in coconut oil—not coconut butter. Says he, "This process brushes the dead hairs out and is a great stimulant. I figure no kanakas are ever bald. They must use coconut oil. Hence!"

The most persistent seeker for the baldness panacea places.

is likely Aubrey Eads, who has chased the will of the wisp to all parts of the world—London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Constantinople. He has spent a sizable fortune in the quest over a period of 15 years but his hair still thins. Yet he does not regard the results with pessimism. "Maybe," he observes, "without these ministrations I would have been entirely bald long ago."

Broadway's recent dancing sensation is a fellow with a single leg, billed as Peg Leg Bates. At the age of 29 and despite the handicap many hail him as nimble as Fred Astaire, Hal LeRoy and other top notchers. He prefaces his turn with the announcement he does not want sympathy but merely to be judged like other performers on merit.

Louis Sobol and Ed Sullivan, the Broadway columnists, have become two of waning vaudeville's smooth masters of ceremony and are frequently three sheeted with names in lights at picture palaces. In contrast to their rather saucy calling, their manner is reserved and minus exertion. They stimulate and accelerate the various acts without those Caesarish cracks, wine bibbing smirks, and shriekings that have made ringmasters pests.

Incidentally, it was just 17 years ago that New York beheld its first master of ceremony. Raymond Hitchcock in his "Hitchy Koo" revue. The comedian in evening dress and top hat greeted his audience in the lobby calling them by name, making introductions and strolling the aisles at intermission to exchange banter and give the goings-on an aura of informality and small towniness the theatre had rarely known. The idea was Karl Kitchen's.

Thingumbobs: Adolphe Menjou can't be talked out of horizontally striped stiff bosomed shirts. Even Amelia Earhart is skittish crossing 5th avenue at 42d. Theodore Dreiser usually orders pig's knuckles and sauerkraut cold at Luchow's. The Arthur Samuels quickie to Paris for 48 hours recently. William Seabrook, who wrote "Asylum," a personal experience with alcoholism, now takes one mild sherry before dinner but that's all. London has 22 daily columnists. S. S. Van Dine, mystery fictionist, has a Scottie that will begin scratching at the sight of a comb. And there's Gene Fowler's story of the Airdale that went to the Flea Circus and "stole the show."

My mind won't stick to work today. In a 51st street window there's a pair of yellow silk pajamas polka dotted in red, cuffed, collared and sashed in purple. And in a 36th street window there's a pink-tongued Sealyham puppy that alternates barking at his mirror reflection and chasing his tail until he falls into a silly squat.

Howard Acton was telling of the Ohio manufacturer who had Big Ben pointed out to him crossing Waterloo Bridge. "They got that from our alarm clocks," he sniffed. They'll probably hitch that gag onto Sam Goldwyn.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Child Feeding

Feeding the child properly is not a difficult task. It only becomes a problem when we make it one. The child can be taught from early infancy to enjoy wholesome foods and to cultivate good eating habits. Nourishing, body-building foods lay the foundation for good health later on in life.

I believe the most common error in planning the meal for the child lies in providing him with sweetened and spiced foods. Never over-sweeten puddings or other desserts. Sugar is all right, but it should not be given in excess. Bear in mind that children need simple foods. Even though the same dishes appear frequently in the daily menu, the child rarely tires of them. Of course, when the appetite is poor and the child eats very little, special efforts must be taken to make the food tempting.

Never force a child to eat or threaten him if he does not. When such practices are used, mealtime is dreaded and the child is unlikely to enjoy his food. It is better for him to eat a small meal willingly than to consume a large forced meal. Do not be misled into the belief that weight is an index of good health and resistance to disease. Quite the contrary may be the fact. Never force a child to eat or cause him to overeat in an endeavor to have him grow fat. Give nature a chance.

Sometimes a child's appetite may be poor because he is not well. If the appetite is suddenly lost and fever is present, put the child to bed and call your doctor. The youngster may be on the verge of one of the diseases common to childhood.

Not Always Hungry

Many parents forget that children are not constantly and always yearning for food. If the child says he is not hungry, it is best to give him a simple meal, even if it consists of nothing more than a slice of bread and butter and a glass of milk. He may accept this and it is far better than forcing him to eat a big meal and perhaps causing distress in the stomach.

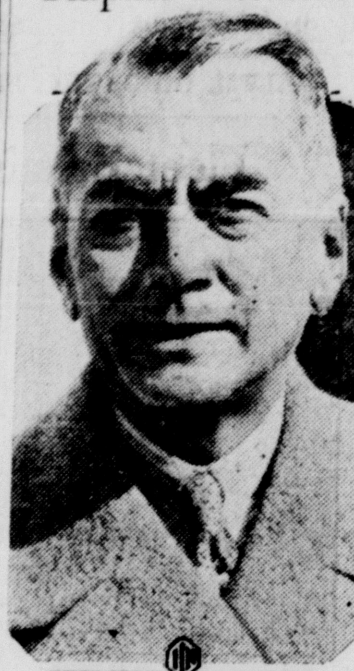

Mealtime ought to be made as pleasant as possible, and meals should be served at regular hours. Fatigue and exciting play just before eating should be avoided. Make sure the chair is comfortable and of the right height. If necessary, have the feet supported by a small footstool. In short, try to make the table a pleasing place and in every way attractive. Above all, never scold the child at mealtime.

Pacifism Unpopular In Europe Although War Clouds Darken

Both the horror of the World war and the ominous aspects of the Ethiopian question which threatens to embroil Great Britain and Italy in war have failed to make pacifism popular with the British people.

This is the opinion of the Rev. Charles N. Filson, pastor of Northwood-West End Church of Christ of Toledo, who returned last week after an extended visit in England and Scotland.

Mr. Filson, former Salem resident, is the son of Mrs. Elma Filson, Woodland ave.

The absence of opposition to war cannot be traced to any spirit of belligerence on the part of the English, Mr. Filson said. It is due rather to the implicit faith the people place in their statesmen and their kings, he thinks.

Conversations with persons he encountered on his tour indicate that the British do not take seriously the threat of war but that they would take up arms unquestioningly if the government should vote to open hostilities, Mr. Filson said.

Mr. Filson told of visits to Hyde park, called the safety valve of the nation, where exponents of all political and social beliefs may air their grievances unmolested.

Pacifists and Communists were heckled and jeered by the crowds, Mr. Filson said. On the other hand a large crowd listened in respectful silence while an Ethiopian presented his country's view of the dispute with Italy.

Mr. Filson believes that the English are turning their noses to a

TAXES LOOMING, DAVEY WARNING

Tells Legislature To Prepare for Many New Fund Levies

sary taxes to take care of new and extraordinary requirements. xxx

Speaks of Savings

"With the certainty that millions of new taxes will have to be levied, in addition to the proceeds of the sales tax, why xxx should we not drive with might and main to save all we can in the normal operations of the government? xxx

"xxx We shall attempt to find additional ways of saving money. xxx May I plead with you for full cooperation. xxx When we know that taxes will have to be levied, then in heaven's name let us practice some genuine economy and make the burden as easy as we can."

The relief financing measure would give the counties ample funds to provide for indigents after the federal relief administration liquidates its state direct relief set-up Nov. 1.

"When Ohio furnishes the money," Davey asserted, "these faults and abuses and crazy theories of relief administration will have to go. I am willing to match my humane impulses against those of the theorists and demagogues who shed copious tears on behalf of the unfortunate."

He reiterated charges of waste, inefficiency and inhuman practices in the relief program.

A bitter critic of President George Rightmire of Ohio State university, since the school official protested the appropriations reductions, Davey hurled another verbal blast at him.

"The president of the Ohio State university, in an ill-advised moment made a bitter and ill-tempered attack upon me ... and I fear he was guilty of intellectual dishonesty. Perhaps he thought the governor of Ohio could be brow-beaten and that the legislature could be coerced into doing his bidding."

"Ought to Get Out"

Davey added that "if the president can not do a good job with $5,000,000 from the state treasury and $1,500,000 from student fees, he ought to confess his incapacity and get out."

President Rightmire has consequently refrained from replying to personal attacks made by the governor. His only answer was to re-submit the university's original budget.

The building program provides for construction and modernization of welfare and educational institutions. "Many of our institutions are overcrowded, seriously so," Davey said. "This very situation invites disaster."

He specifically mentioned proposed construction of a new school at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' home at Xenia, and a hospital addition to the Soldiers' home at Sandusky. The program, he added, will cover needs for the next 15 or 20 years.

His plan of financing the program to circumvent a constitutional debt limitation by setting up an independent bond issue corporation, the governor said, has been declared valid by "able" attorneys.

Pointing out that there is only a limited amount of federal money available and a delay might be costly, the governor opposed suggestions for submitting the financing plan to a referendum vote.

"If we delay a month and a half it is probable that the money for such purpose will be all gone and then it would be a case of 'love's labor lost,'" he contended.

On Long Tax Trail

Amos Woodcock (l.), former prohibition czar, and Dan Moody (r.), former governor of Texas, are government prosecutors in cases against Huey Long aides charged with income tax evasion.

Referring to the fund transfer plan, Davey pointed out that it in no way was an appropriation bill and that no additional appropriations were authorized.

"I realize the immense pressure that is brought to bear ... to grant larger appropriations," he said. "You will be relieved of this enormous pressure ... I am willing to take all of the responsibility."

The necessity for a crime bureau, the executive declared, "remains as real and challenging" as it was last spring.

Federal Agents Raid Second 'Dope' Farm

BRYAN, O., Sept. 19.—Federal agents attempted today to trace the distribution connections of a "narcotic farm" which they raided here yesterday, arresting six persons.

Sheriff Leroy Siders who participated in the raid said a "crop of Mexican narcotic weed valued at $12,000 was confiscated. A federal agent described the crop as the largest "he had ever seen," Sheriff Siders said.

The sheriff said the federal agents intended to file charges of cultivating and possessing narcotics against the six persons held. Those in custody ranged in age from 14 to 70.

The sheriff said the raiders found many letters from agents and salesmen in various parts of the country. There were no indications, he said, that the six arrested were working for an outside agency. He said the crop covered three acres.

A considerable amount of the crop already was prepared for market, Sheriff Siders said. A similar farm near Van Wert was raided by federal agents two weeks ago.

Warns Motorists

BROOKS BOWMAN HAS NEW TUNES

Fashions His Newest Bits Of Rhythm On Aged Piano

When 11 years old, Bowman acquired a song writing impulse and beamed forth with his first composition, "Genevieve." And although he can not play a piano he has, since that eventful day of "Genevieve," composed 35 songs, including his nine new melodies.

While at the breakfast table in the home of a friend, Jack Whittemore of Cleveland, Bowman received the inspiration for the song, "Love And A Dime," which was destined to bring him national recognition. Hal Kemp's orchestra, with "Skippy" Ennis doing the vocal, introduced the song to the nation.

His song, "East Of The Sun," has several times within the last few months been voted the most popular song of the current period. Bowman revealed that most of his inspirations for songs and lyrics come to him in bed. And so that he may retain these inspirations he has a pad with a flashlight attachment and a pencil handy at his bedside to jot them down.

Will Study Law
At Princeton, Bowman is majoring in politics and philosophy and hopes to eventually study law. Before entering the New Jersey school, he attended prep school at Asheville, N. C., and University School in Cleveland.

Bowman enjoys writing songs and attributes much of his success to the instructions he has received from his mother and Don Kaylor, a Cleveland pianist.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bowman of 430 Highland ave.

The 75-year-old "square type" piano which Bowman used in the composing of his new songs is the property of Judge J. C. Boone who is endeavoring to give it away or place it in the care of some charitable institution or reliable person.

THREE SPECIAL ISSUES IMPEND

Both Houses Enact Measure To Provide Old Age Pensions

may prove a stumbling block when the relief proposal comes up.

Plans Relief Fund
Under a plan outlined by the governor, the relief body would make available to counties without a vote of the people, $15,000,000 to be taken from a one per cent utility excise tax, already earmarked for relief needs.

Anticipating pressure from various groups for appropriation increases, Davey substituted the transfer plan for a revised budget bill and told the legislators in his message that he would take "full responsibility."

This plan merely provides for transfers of funds, mostly from present salary appropriations, to finance necessary departmental functions. A supreme court ruling blocked his recent attempt to have the state control board make the transfers. Both houses adopted a bill correcting an error made by the last regular session relative to issuance of poor relief bonds approved by voters.

The bill, as first enacted, outlawed all bond issues voted but not issued after June 7. The corrective bill eliminated the outlawing date so that issues approved prior to that date may now be issued.

O. E. S. MEETS AT COLUMBIANA

Members Also Enjoy Chicken Dinner In Church Room

COLUMBIANA, Sept. 19. — The Past Matrons and Patrons organization of the 13th district, Order of Eastern Star, met Monday evening in the local Masonic hall. Preceding the meeting, a chicken dinner was served in the dining-room of the Presbyterian church, with covers laid for 94.

A short musical program included: Vocal solo by R. A. Watkins, Mrs. F. E. Griffin and Mrs. Dick Fitzpatrick; and violin selections by Harry Hetzel. Mrs. E. T. Coyle was the accompanist.

Baseball and horseshoe pitching furnished diversion at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club at Oakdale gardens. Conrad Berg and Clark Marshall, Leetonia; E. A. Rise, Pittsburgh; and Roy Baker were visitors. Mr. Berg gave a talk relating to the county scout reservation near Lisbon and Mr. Marshall announced that the state convention would be held in Akron Oct. 20-23. Next week's meeting will be a "Ladies' Night" occasion.

Service Sunday

The annual Harvest Home service of Grace Evangelical-Reformed church will be held at 10:15 a. m. Sunday. Members and friends are invited to bring canned goods, jellies, jam, fruits, vegetables and flowers for the display, which will be in charge of a committee composed of Homer C. Culp, Mrs. Chas. B. Fuhrman, and O. P. Harrold. The donations will be sent to the Home for the Aged at Upper Sandusky, as has been the custom in the past years.

The American Legion band will furnish music Saturday afternoon for the opening of the local high school football season, to be played on the new gridiron at Firestone park.

The band, during their usual Monday evening rehearsal, marched to the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hawkins and gave them a farewell serenade. Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins left Wednesday on a motor tour of the south, hoping to benefit Mr. Hawkins' health.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Young and family expect to move to Youngstown Monday, where Mr. Young was recently appointed secretary-treasurer of the Youngstown & Suburban railway, having been local agent for the company for several years.

A good crowd attended the weekly dance Tuesday evening at Valley Golf links. A five-piece local orchestra furnished music. Another dance will be held next Tuesday evening.

Chief of Staff, U. S. Army Will Train Filipinos

Copyright 1935 By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—General Douglas MacArthur announced yesterday he will retire as chief of staff of the American Army on Dec. 5 to undertake the task of organizing the military defenses of the new commonwealth government of the Philippines.

President Roosevelt detailed MacArthur to the assignment at the urgent request of Manuel Quezon who was elected first president of the new government in yesterday's election.

Accompanied by Captain Thomas Jefferson Davis, his aide, General MacArthur will sail from San Francisco early in October, arriving in Manila in time to participate in the inauguration of Quezon Nov. 10.

Secretary Dern, vice president of the Senate, and a delegation of senators and representatives will also be present at the impressive inauguration ceremonies.

General MacArthur will retain his position as chief of staff until he assumes his new duties in Manila, though Major General George S. Monks, deputy chief, will be in active charge of army affairs here. Secretary Dern has already announced he will not recommend appointment of MacArthur's successor until he returns from representing as president at the Philippine ceremonies.

The Home Kitchen

By Jeanette Young Norton

ROLL IT up and slice it off when dessert time comes. The luscious, round loaf-type of sweet is good to look at and even better to eat.

Old-fashioned jelly roll is probably the grandpa of all the various dessert rolls. One good thing about roll desserts is that you can cut them to make as many or as few servings as you wish by the simple expedient of making the slices thick or thin. A roll is always attractive if you bring it whole to the table and slice it there. Be sure to use a sharp knife. In some cases it is often best to slightly wet the knife before using.

Here's yummy fruit roll, just waiting to be rolled, sliced and eaten. Whip one cup heavy cream, fold in half pound finely cut marshmallows, one package finely cut dates, three diced bananas, quarter pound finely chopped walnuts, and shape mixture into roll three inches thick. Roll in fine crumbs of eight graham crackers, the crumbs spread on waxed paper. Chill in refrigerator three to four hours. Slice about one inch thick. Top with whipped cream and maraschino cherry if desired.

Baked Apple Roll

For baked apple roll, sift two cups pastry flour, two teaspoons baking powder and one teaspoon salt. Mix two tablespoons cooking oil or melted butter and three-quarters cup of milk. Combine and roll out; quarter-inch thick; spread lightly with sliced apples; sprinkle lightly with sugar and cinnamon, and roll up as for jelly roll. Slices one inch thick, set on end in well-oiled baking pan and pour over a sauce made with following ingredients: Three-quarters cup sugar, half cup maple syrup, one and half tablespoons cornstarch, two cups cold water, two tablespoons melted butter and a dash of nutmeg. Cook the sauce for five minutes. Bake until apples are tender and serve hot.

MANUFACTURERS AND food people always are making checks in an effort to discover what each locality likes in the way of food. In a recent survey made by sausage manufacturers, it was discovered that in some cities bologna was the favorite, while in other places it was third in the list, having to yield to pork sausage and frankfurters.

Those who favor the bologna sausage have good taste, for it is delicious whether eaten alone, heated or combined with other foods.

Of Italian Origin

Bologna is, as its name indicates, a dish of Italian origin, taking its name from a city known for its good food. The food value of bologna, like that of other sausage, is high. It is rich in protein, fairly high in energy content, and 100 per cent edible, with no waste whatsoever. It makes an ideal dish for the main course of a luncheon or dinner served hot. In cold form it is nutritious, delicious filling for hearty sandwiches.

Here is an unusual recipe for special baked potato with bologna. It is nice for lunch or dinner, especially when the days start to become a little brisk and the appetite waxes correspondingly heartier.

How It's Done

The recipe calls for three large Idaho potatoes, three-quarters of a cup of hot milk, two tablespoons butter, one cup cream sauce, half cup chopped bologna, some fried apple slices, paprika and parsley. Scoop out potatoes and mash. Add milk, butter and salt. Combine cream sauce and bologna. Fill potato shells with creamed sausage. Cover with mashed potato. Brown in oven (400 F.) for about 15 minutes. Serve with fried apple slices. Garnish with parsley and paprika.

For a delicious luncheon salad, take one cup boiled potatoes, diced, also half cup cooked peas, two chopped pimientos, two cups diced bologna, half cup diced celery, two finely diced sweet pickles and half cup mayonnaise. Toss ingredients lightly together. Arrange on crisp lettuce. Garnish with additional mayonnaise, sections of hard-boiled egg and beet slices. It serves six.

Theater Attractions

Ann Dvorak, Joe E. Brown and Patricia Ellis in "Bright Lights" to be shown at the State theater Friday and Saturday.

Friday and Saturday the State theater presents Joe E. Brown in "Bright Lights." This is a First National comedy in which the wide-mouthed film comic appears as a burlesque comedian. This farce has plenty of action, romance and pathos. It has four snappy songs and several specialty numbers with some beautiful girls participating.

Joe E. Brown portrays the part of a small-time burlesque comedian in a troupe which is on tour. His wife, Ann Dvorak, is his stage partner. Miss Dvorak proved her dancing and singing ability in "Sweet Music," opposite Rudy Vallee. As a burlesque performer she has several numbers where she dances and sings.

As the story opens, a runaway hearse eludes detectives and joins the troupe. This part is played by Patricia Ellis, 18-year-old featured player. William Gargan is a scout for a New York stage production and when he sees Brown, Ellis and Dvorak perform he conceives the idea of teaming Ellis and Brown in the Broadway production. This leaves Miss Dvorak quite out of the picture. She, wanting to give Joe his chance, steps aside, sacrificing her career in order to give Joe every possible chance.

Trouble starts with Joe falling for his new partner. He lets the success go to his head and nearly loses his wife, whom he really loves.

Joe E. Brown as the clowning, hoofing burlesque troupier, is excellent. Miss Dvorak sings "Toddlin' Along With You" and Miss Ellis, in her first screen song, is quite capable in her number, "You're an Eye-Ful of Heaven."

Others in the cast include Joseph Cawthorn, Arthur Treacher and Gordon Westcott. The picture was directed by Busby Berkeley.

The return engagement of "The Thin Man," starring William Powell and Myrna Loy, will be shown at

Private Home Construction Tends To Start Heavy Industry on Upward Path

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Government statisticians said today that America's long idle carpenters, bricklayers and other skilled workers are beginning to find jobs in the construction of private homes.

Increased private construction has drawn the attention of economists who have been watching anxiously for improvement of the long-dragging heavy goods industries.

They also found other signs of improvement in this vital field, along with some discouraging features.

Sees Upward Swing

Isador Lubin, commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, summarized the situation by saying conditions in the building industries were "very definitely on the rise."

He added that "employment in the heavy goods industries generally is improving, although it has a great distance to go to reach the level of non-durable goods."

An inter-office memorandum prepared by the statistics division of the federal housing administration said "the available information indicates that at last the building industry is beginning to absorb its unemployed."

It warned, however, that there was still a "long way to go," because even in 1930, when employment was higher than in any other recent year, it was only 88 per cent of normal.

A survey of available government figures showed that other indices in the activity in the heavy industries tended generally upward, but were spotty. Employment in July showed an index of 69.3 per cent of the 1923-25 average, as compared with 67.4 a year ago, and payrolls were 55.5 as compared with 49.9.

Some industries were declared back to "normal" during the summer, with agricultural implement makers and automobile manufacturers employing more than during the 1923-25 period, but lumber mills were averaging less than half the workers, and railroad repair shops were at almost as low a level.

Building Permits Gain

Lubin said the index of 90 in the machine tools industry was of particular significance with respect to future activity. But he acknowledged that in some cases it might signify the substitution of machinery for men.

As evidence of the long-looked-for pick up in building, officials pointed to figures on shipments of construction materials and building permits. Government spending figured in the former, but the private building had shown little life until recent months.

Building permits in 753 cities jumped from 1,808 for residential buildings in July, 1934, to 5,124 in July of this year. The money involved was $6,699,863, and $27,397,689 respectively.

A. F. OF L. FLAYS LEAGUE REPORT

Labor Leaders Claim Lawyers Group For Big Business

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The national lawyers committee of the American league went on record today with a declaration that the new deal's labor relations act is "unconstitutional."

Quickly, a spokesman for the American Federation of Labor replied that the committee represented the views of "special privilege" and "big business."

Soon after Raoul E. Deservine, chairman of the committee of 58 prominent lawyers, had made public the opinion that the Wagner collective bargaining law violates the federal charter, Frank E. Morrison, A. F. of L. secretary, said:

"This committee simply represents the views held by special privilege and big business, which have always opposed every piece of legislation introduced in congress and the states to bring a little more happiness into workers' homes."

"It looks to me as if the lawyers committee has been organized for the purpose of making perhaps a last stand to delay and impede the legislation enacted to bring about conditions which would result in eliminating unemployment, benefitting labor and doing away with unfair competition."

The lawyers committee, whose views were made public last night, plans to analyze other new deal legislation. Its opinion of the Wagner act, which sets up a permanent labor board to prevent "unfair labor practices" and defines in law the right of self-organization and collective bargaining, was based on two main grounds.

The committee held that the act violated the constitutional guarantee that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. It argued also that the law went beyond the powers the constitution gives congress over interstate commerce.

OHIO COUNTIES COLLECT TAXES

Columbiana Among Those Where Payment Difficulty Is Reported

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Sept. 19.—Many Ohio counties, already hard pressed for new sources of taxation, are having difficulty, a survey showed today, in collecting the taxes already assessed.

A preliminary cross-section analysis of real estate tax collections disclosed a decline in the income of five of 10 counties replying to a questionnaire.

Extension of deadlines for paying real estate taxes prevented a more comprehensive survey of the general situation. The deadline for payment of taxes for the last half of 1934 was June 20.

Encouraging conditions, however, were found in a few counties.

Columbiana Drops
Columbiana county collections decreased from $832,297 for the first half of 1934 to approximately $600,000 in the second half. The delinquency in current 1934 taxes was 25 per cent, as against 30 per cent in 1933.

On the brighter side of the ledger was Lucas county with probably its best collection of the depression years. When the books closed, the current collection exceeded more than 100 per cent and payments still were coming in. The total was $5,373,121. Ninety-seven per cent of the duplicate for the first half of 1934 was collected.

Collections in Cuyahoga county for the last half of 1934 totaled $22,837,151, with bills still being opened and abatements yet to be compiled. This compares with collections of $25,727,612 for the first half of 1934, when property owners had a month more in which to pay.

Other Counties Report
Cuyahoga county collections for the 12 months ended June 30, 1934, totaled $47,148,751 plus $3,397,324 by abatement. The last report on delinquencies showed $73,681,979 outstanding.

Athens county reported collections of $317,990 for the second half of 1934, as compared with $403,268 in the first half. A reduction of $34,000 in the last 21 months in delinquencies brightened the situation.

Athens county payments for 1934 totaled $377,223, as compared with $721,258 for 1933, a decrease of $123,435. The reduction was attributed largely to cutting the 15-mill limitation to 10 mills, and elimination of a two-mill levy for roads.

Taxes assessed in Montgomery county for the last half of 1934 totaled $3,145,000, but the books closed with approximately $3,500,000 paid in. This amount included delinquencies. The Montgomery county property owners were assessed $4,569,945 for the first half of 1934, but only $2,482,480 was collected.

Officials of Trumbull county, on the basis of incomplete returns, predicted the last collection would be the best in five years. The treasurer already had received $1,275,904. Payments for the first half of 1934 represented 94.4 per cent of the duplicate.

As the deadline for payments approaches in Stark county, a large amount of duplicate remained to be collected.

Relief Parley

BUCCYRUS, Sept. 19.—Mayor George M. Birk invited officials of nearby cities to come here Sept. 27 for a conference on relief problems they will face when federal funds are withdrawn soon.

"High Hats" Heat

His high silk topper didn't provide much relief from a burning sun when Cornelius Van H. Engert, United States charge d'affaires in Ethiopia, attended a peace mass at St. George's cathedral in Addis Ababa at which Emperor Selassie was also present.

Petticoat Authority In State Assembly

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19.—The senate may soon have to bow to a "petticoat authority."

It named Mrs. S. I. Gruner, of Gallon, first assistant sergeant at arms today to succeed her late husband, a kindly, elderly woman. Mrs. Gruner is well versed in the antics of the senators, for during her husband's term she faithfully sat by and watched every action of the senate.

Her husband died a short time before the regular session adjourned in May and one of the first acts of the senate when it convened was to bestow that honor on her.

Mrs. Gruner will be called upon to maintain order in the chamber.

Warren Boys' Band Wins National Title

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—Sixty-four red-coated Warren, O., boys last night won for the third successive time the national band championship in competition held at the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here.

Sixteen Des Moines, Iowa, women in red capes and white skirts won the ladies' drill team title while Attleboro, Mass., captured the women's drum and bugle corps trophy.

Canned Meat Fatal

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Ruth Ethel Blosser, 51, died last night after eating canned meat obtained at a grocery store with a federal relief food order.

Coroner Edward E. Smith said today he would conduct an autopsy.

The woman's husband, Levi, an unemployed railroad hand, said he and a daughter ate some of the meat. He became ill but the daughter didn't. The meal also included fresh vegetables.

DEATHS

BENJAMIN L. MACKALL
LISBON, Sept. 18.—Word has been received by relatives here of the death of Benjamin L. Mackall, 64, of Eastland, Tex.

He formerly lived at Hookstown, Pa., and went to Texas in 1920 from Salem, W. Va., where he was employed by the Standard Oil Co. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and M. E. church in Salem, W. Va.

He is survived by his wife and six children; a sister, Mrs. Valley Snow of Lisbon and a brother, Edwin of East Liverpool; eight half-brothers, sisters and stepmother at Negley.

Britain Mobilizes Its Aerial Fleet

LONDON, Sept. 19.—An authoritative source asserted today that the British air ministry was building up the royal air forces strategic Mediterranean stations for any eventually which might arise from the present dispute between Italy and Ethiopia.

At the same time, the British admiralty list showed that the admiralty, having virtually depleted its home fleet to reinforce naval stations in the Mediterranean, now is calling on its American West Indies fleet for additional support.

In contrast with these naval maneuvers, which now have been made more or less public, the heavy air reinforcements — likewise officially characterized as precautionary — will be kept secret.

Project Delayed

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19.—Louis W. Adams, public relations counsel for the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy district, said today conservancy officials were awaiting an order from president Roosevelt to start work on the proposed $34,000,000 project.

PARENTS

DISCOVER MUSICAL TALENT IN YOUR CHILDREN!
WE ARE WORKING TOWARD SALEM'S
Musical Advancement

We believe that any store service designed to promote a more general interest in music, is of value to the community as a whole, as well as to the individual student, artist and teacher.

Many parents hesitate to purchase musical instruments for their children because they lack confidence in the child's musical ability. Our solution to this problem is OUR SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

HERE'S THE PLAN — FOR TEN DAYS

We will furnish any instrument you desire with a course of 55 lessons, at a cost of only $1.25 per week, which includes the instrument and private lessons each week, and when the STUDENT COMPLETES HIS COURSE, THE INSTRUMENT BECOMES THEIR PROPERTY, and if we find that your child is better suited for another instrument, than the instrument they have chosen, we will recommend a change. This service is yours through our School of Music. Never before have the parents had such a real opportunity offered them. This gives your child every possible advantage.

Here are the Instruments That Will Be Taught—

SAXOPHONE — CLARINET — PIANO ACCORDIAN — GUITAR — BANJO
HAWAIIAN GUITAR — VIOLIN — CELLO — DRUMS — TRUMPET
TROMBONE — PIANO

In addition to instructions in the various instruments, lessons will be given in Piano and Voice. As a special offer to Piano Students, Prof. Allen will give a series of three lessons to beginners during our Ten-Day Special Introductory Offer. These free lessons will be ability tests in order that pupils may learn if they have musical talent.

Prof. Allen is also offering a number of free introductory lessons to advanced students enrolling for lessons in piano.

Voice tests will be conducted by Prof. Henderson during these ten days. Take advantage of this opportunity.

Quakers Hosts To Struthers In Inaugural Big Six Game

CUBS ESTABLISH RECORD FOR WINS

Ship Giants Yesterday For 15th Straight Victory

HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer. The pennant-hungry Cubs have set up another record on their way toward the National League title. They wrecked the hopes of the Giants yesterday by routing them 15 to 4, holding their 21st game in a row and putting the Giants 6 1/2 games behind.

Look Good. The Cubs' clouting crew was good enough to go on almost without a loss. Trailing 1-0, they came to bat in the fourth and battered Clyde Dellinger and Harry Gumbert in the fifth. In the next game the Cubs' three straight errors to lead them then retired the side with a run.

Game Will Be Eighth Meeting of the Two Schools; Struthers Favored To Annex Sixth Victory

By JACK BALLANTINE, News Sports Editor

With the echo of the Sebring game still ringing in their ears and a week of painstaking practice behind them, a Salem High school football team, that is in a bit of a hole with the city gridiron fans, will make their second appearance under the lights at Reilly field tomorrow night to face Struthers High school's Red and Black gridders in the inaugural battle of the Northeastern Ohio Big Six league.

The haunted Quaker squad will be face to face with their first real acid test of the 1935 season when they stack up against the Struthers aggregation which is fresh from a 19-7 victory over Lowellville last Saturday.

Give Struthers Edge

Predictions on the outcome of the battle are mostly made in whispers, but the straightforward dopesters, to whom whispering is a lost art, are not hesitant about giving Struthers the edge.

Regardless of who is favored, the outcome of the game will be eagerly awaited in football circles throughout the district, and especially in the Big Six league where the title race this year is considered a toss-up. Under the tutorage of Denny Schill last year the Struthers gridiron machine trampled the Quakers beneath a 21-0 score, but now comes a new mentor, Mike Koma, former Grove City college star, who was assistant under Schill and has taken over the reigns of the football team since Schill accepted the head coaching position at Ellwood City, Pa.

And Koma stepped into a mighty tough job, not even considering the fact that he has to fill the shoes of Schill's, for he had but four lettersmen at the start of the season with which to form a foundation for his team. His only consolation was that these lettersmen were all of the Class A gridiron stock, although only one, Tom Bogdon, was a veteran from last year.

Bogdon will be remembered to football fans here for his smashing defensive play from his tackle position in the Salem-Struthers game last year.

The others, Warren Waite, John Harkins and Venango Del Signore, tasted enough game experience last year to receive their letter awards.

Koma's big disappointment came when Stephen Pipoly, the only experienced backfield man, was declared ineligible. With nothing but inexperienced men from which to build a backfield, Koma picked Marty Medwick, a promising sophomore, to hold down the quarterback position, call plays and handle the punting. In other backfield positions the Struthers coach placed John Strauss and Jim Thompson at halfbacks and Steve Belchick at fullback, while he held in reserve Kimmel, Rosen and Nick Battista.

Using Harkins, Bogdon and Waite as the mainstays of his line, Koma added Campbell, McElroy, Gabert and Adams, all inexperienced, and shaped himself a forward wall.

All See Action

All of these men saw action in the Struthers-Lowellville game and will probably play in the game tomorrow night.

The Struthers line will average approximately 162 pounds while the backfield will average around 150 pounds.

The game at Reilly stadium tomorrow night will be the eighth meeting of the two schools. Struthers holds the edge in these contests, having won five. The Quakers were victorious in one game, that in 1926, when they won 10-6.

The first meeting of the two schools was in 1926 when Struthers handed the Quakers a 6-5 defeat. The next game, in 1928, was won by Struthers, 6-5, and then followed an interval where the teams did not play until 1925 when they battled to a 7-7 tie. Games were played in 1926 and 1927 and then were discontinued until 1933 and 1934.

Reserves Play Lectonia

After two days of extensive practice and hard scrimmage the first two strings of the Quaker squad took a breather last night while Assistant Coach Herb Brown's reserves battled Lectonia High school in a practice game.

As the regulars were going through passing, punting, blocking and line drill on the southern end of Reilly field, the reserves were on the short end of a 19-0 score in the game with Lectonia.

Consisting mainly of freshmen and sophomores, the Quaker reserve squad looked impressive as they tangled with the Lectonia team, which is made up of veteran material from last year.

Lectonia scored their touchdowns by taking advantage of the frequent fumbles made by the reserves.

Leeson, a giant six and one-half foot tackle of the Lectonia team, who made his teammates look like midgets, was the outstanding performer of the game.

Want a Winner

BOSTON — For their own good National League club owners should round to bolster the wallowing Boston Braves.

That's Manager Bill McKeechie's stand. "I will use every bit of argumentative power I possess to convince the club owners in our own league that they should bolster the Boston team if they can do it without weakening themselves. A stronger team in Boston means that every club will profit financially, because Boston is hungry for a winning team," McKeechie said.

Ten years as head coach at St. Mary's and Edward "Slip" Madigan is still turning out winning eleven. In these ten years the Galloping Gae played 105 games, winning 81, losing 19 and tying 5. Madigan is a former Notre Dame center, a member of the Oregon bar and has taught economics and history at St. Mary's besides coaching and directing athletics at California college.

RIGHTMIRE AND SCHMIDT PLEASED WITH OHIO STATE GRID PRACTICE

President George W. Rightmire of Ohio State University took time out from preparations for a record freshman class to attend the opening football practice.

This photo of President Rightmire, Coach Francis A. Schmidt, and Captain Gomer Jones indicates that the practice was a very satisfactory affair.

No novice at athletics, the university president understands and enjoys the sport. During his student days in the 1890's, he was a member of the football squad and a track man of no little ability.

Later he was graduate manager of athletics at Ohio State. When Ohio State entered the Western Conference, Mr. Rightmire became the first president of the university's board of control for athletics. He also served for six years as treasurer of the athletics association.

MICHIGAN HAS SURPRISE TEAM

Dope Points to Ohio and Minnesota, But Kipke Lads Improve

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Coach Harry Kipke already is promising to "surprise somebody" with his 1935 Michigan football team.

Although the dope points to Ohio State and Minnesota as the powerhouse teams of the Big Ten, Kipke promises a better team than the one of 1934 which "surprised" even Kipke by failing to win a single conference engagement.

"In another week," says Kipke, "I expect to see plenty of speed. Blocking has shown great improvement."

Prospects Brighter

Prospects, meanwhile, were even brighter at Ohio State and Minnesota. Coach Bernie Bierman sent his Gophers through a lively scrimmage yesterday and got results. Andy Uram, sophomore halfback, ran back a kick of 95 yards to score on the opening kick and then teamed with Leovir to tear the scrub line to pieces. At Columbus, the Buckeyes threw the piskin like a baseball, tossing four or five laterals on one play, in a short offensive workout.

Leon Dailey, senior left halfback, about to step into Duane Purvis' punting assignment. Dailey's accurate placing of punts was the big feature of the Purdue workout yesterday.

Coach "Bo" McMillin of Indiana was worried about ragged blocking and tackling, but Captain Reed Kelso, 225-pound center, gave him something to cheer about with his kicking. Kelso, kicking from the 30-yard line, booted 25 placements between the uprights without an error. Monday and added 21 more before missing.

Down at Illinois, Coach Bob Zupke drove his men on with a demand for better knowledge of fundamentals. "Zup" drilled his Illini on fundamentals for three hours yesterday before letting them engage in a signal drill.

Despite the hot weather, which slowed up Chicago's practice for the second straight day, Northwestern held its first scrimmage of the season with Wally Cruise and Don Heap as halfbacks, Don Geyer at quarterback, and Hugh Duvall at fullback.

Yarosz Faces Risko Tonight

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 19.—Teddy Yarosz, 25-year-old fiddle-player from Monaca, Pa., staked his mid-dewlight boxing crown on the outcome of a 15-round bout tonight with Eddie (Babe) Risko, ex-gob from Syracuse, N. Y.

Yarosz, who won his title last Sept. 11 from Vince Dundee, of Newark, in a listless 10-rounder in Pittsburgh, was an 8 to 5 favorite in Pittsburgh to retain it. Experts figured Risko will need a knockout to win.

The two poles met last New Year's day in a non-title affair at Scranton, and Risko won with a technical knockout in the seventh round.

Tonight's bout is their first meeting since, and also Yarosz' first defense of the title.

Mullins Trample Elks; Play Final Game Today

Foremen Win 21-8; Baptists Defeat Trinity Lutherans to Win Church League Championship

Chalking up runs on everyhing but the peak of "Twitchy" Pat Bolen's baseball cap, The Mullins club trampled the Elks beneath a 21-8 score in the second game of the Class A championship series played under the lights at Reilly Stadium last night.

The Mullins victory last night tossed the Class A championship series into a deadlock, the Elks having won the first game 2-1, with the final game scheduled for 7 p. m. today.

Baptists Win Championship

While the Class A championship remains to be decided tonight, the Baptists defeated the Trinity Lutherans 18-6 in the first game last night to gain championship honors in the Church league.

The Elks broke loose with a three-run tally in the first inning to open the scoring in the Class A fracas last night.

Feeling secure with their ace twirler, Ritchie, on the mound, the Elks' infield contributed two errors to enable Mullins to tally three runs in their half of the first inning.

After the Elks had gone blank in the second inning, Bolen of Mullins reached first on an error and Ritchie walked the next three batters, sending Bolen across the plate. Following Bolen's tally, Kennedy and Debnar hammered out singles that brought in two additional runs and Mullins took the field for the third inning with a three-run lead.

Both Blank in Fourth

The Elks scored one run in the third inning and both teams were blanked in the fourth.

Mullins sent McNamee to replace Smith on the mound at the start of the fifth inning and the Elks initiated the new hurler into the game by scoring one run.

Retaliating in their half of the fifth, Mullins tallied four runs from singles by Kaiser, Caldwell and McNamee.

While the Elks went scoreless in the fifth, Mullins again continued marking up runs by bringing three of their players across the plate. Manager Dale Rafferty of the Elks sent Bill Pauline to the mound during this scoring spree to relieve Ritchie.

Mullins added three runs in both the sixth and seventh innings while the Elks continued to go scoreless.

The eighth inning saw the Elks score three runs while Mullins, not to be outdone, brought in five more runs to tack onto their total score.

OHIO UNIVERSITY

Don Peden is a pessimist these days.

The Ohio university football coach, glancing back over last year's Bobcat grid machine, heaves a sigh as he contemplates the coming grid season.

True, Peden will have a flock of lettermen available for his 1935 squad, but the team didn't fare so well last year and the sophomore material coming up is potential but an uncertain quantity.

Then again, the schedule is one of the hardest in Bobcat history.

Peden, starting his tenth year as head coach at Ohio U., will have a squad of 4, including 15 lettermen, to select his varsity from.

He will have at least one letterman available for every post, including the 1934 star, Art Lewis. A half-dozen veterans are available for the backfield. Sundry sophomores, including Jurkovich of Canton, Steele of Warren, Whitcomb of Marion, and Chernitski of Butler, Pa., promise to give the lettermen a real battle for the backfield posts.

The Ohio U. schedule:

Sept. 28, Illinois; Oct. 11, John Carroll; Oct. 19, Marshall; Oct. 26, Dayton at home; Nov. 2, Miami at home; Nov. 9, Muskegon at home; Nov. 16, Cincinnati; Nov. 22, Ohio Wesleyan at home.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA
Leonard (Stub) Allison has started his first full season as head football coach at the University of California committed to the policy of giving "the game back to the boys."

"The students played the game, not the coach," said the mentor who moved from assistant's berth to the main coaching seat of one of the country's most important grid centers last season.

As part of his plan to de-emphasize the part the coach plays, he is working on an award to be given the most valuable man on the squad. The players will make the selection.

Sensational touchdown making won't count any more than blocking and tackling efforts.

Coach Allison believes in fundamentals first and fancy maneuvers afterward. Powerful blocking, to him, is half the game, probably more.

"Knock down the enemy and you will be knocking at the scoring gates," is his battle cry.

The California eleven of this season will be lighter and faster than a year ago by early indications. All four backfield men will come in for ball lugging duties, instead of virtually the "one man" attack of preceding seasons.

More passes will be thrown than before. Ground gaining activities will branch off a short punt formation much of the time. The "flanker play" will see service. A single wing back formation is mixed up in the maneuvers.

The squad is well fortified with experienced men and the outlook for help from the great freshman team of last year, undefeated and untied, is considerable.

Big, Bad Baer in Action

This grim fighting pose, showing Max Baer as he sparred at training camp at Speculator, N. Y., should give Joe Louis cause for concern when the two meet in New York, Sept. 24.

Louis Manager Gives Baer Tip

Only Chance Is to Slip Over Low Left-handed Punch in First Round

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Sept. 19.—Here's a tip for Max Baer on how he can whip Joe Louis at the Yankee stadium Tuesday night, and it comes from no other than John Roxborough, manager of the Detroit Bombers.

"The only chance Baer has to beat Joe is to slip over a low left-handed punch in the first round, paralyze Louis, and then nail him with a right," declared Roxborough.

"Understand, I am not saying that Max will do that," added Joe's manager, "but if he tosses one low blow, it will be just too bad. We may lose the round, but I am sure we can effort to lose more than Baer."

James J. Braddock, who lifted the heavyweight crown from Baer in June, agrees with Roxborough in that Max will be in for the fight of his life next week. And he didn't overlook his battle with the former champion.

"I won't say for certain until I see Baer work at Speculator Friday, but right now I'm kinda inclined to lean toward Louis," said Braddock after watching the 21-year-old Detroit fighter work out. "Max can hit as hard or harder than this boy, but he's got to watch out. Louis hits faster and oftener."

Except for another boxing session Saturday, Louis is all through with hard work. He planned to do only light work today, Friday and Saturday.

with O'Neill several days ago and that O'Neill will sign a one-year contract when he arrives in Cleveland from the road trip which ended in Philadelphia yesterday.

"I think Steve has done a fine job," Bradley said, "and I'm delighted that he is willing to tackle it again next year."

O'Neill took Manager Walter Johnson's position on Aug. 5. It had been reported that Donie Bush, manager of the Minneapolis team, would be engaged to manage the Indians next year.

In Philadelphia, O'Neill said he was anxious to talk over plans for next year with Bradley and General Manager Billy Evans.

"Our club doesn't need a lot of tinkering to put it right up there next year," O'Neill said. "As I see it, our first problem is to get hold of a good catcher. If we can do that I think you'll see the Indians in the fight all the way."

BAER IS "EDGY", HITS REPORTER

Tells Scribe, "Take That Back To Your Editor"

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Max Baer is a little "edgy" today, a little argumentative.

If you take those signs as indications of perfect physical condition, which fight handlers do, then the erratic Californian is ready to duel Joe Louis in the Yankee stadium Tuesday night.

For instance, a reporter from a New York newspaper whose sports editor favors the other fellow, got a little close to the big curly head. Baer casually dropped a short right hand punch on the writer's shoulder.

"Take that back to your editor," he growled.

Now the reporter can't write on a typewriter. He has to dictate his stories.

Getting Mean

Baer is getting mean in his training ring. Down so fine at 211 pounds that he is overdoing it, Max is evening up for past indignities.

He smashed George Turner of Tulsa around yesterday, after the 19-year-old 190-pounder had made a punching bag of him for a couple of days. He knocked down Abe Feldman, a real heavyweight, for the first time in Feldman's busy career.

Life is miserable now for Baer's housemates in the log cabin four miles up in the Adirondack hills. Lights automatically shut off from the town power plant at 10 p. m.

No radio, no smoking, nothing but the right food, road work, training, have made a magnificent physical specimen of the former heavyweight champion, but the usual ordeal has left the night club favorite healthy to a degree bordering on a nervous breakdown.

"I'm ducking him," says Frank Pacassi, his head conditioner. "He's so mean now you can't tell what he'll do."

May Be Warm-up Battle

Max and his brother, Buddy, another promising heavyweight, are getting farther and farther apart. There may be a fine warm-up battle there before Max gets into the ring with the Negro sensation.

Even the experts, trained down fine, are getting edgy. One of the visiting experts, Ed Edgar of Detroit, got so worked up when he

Hears Self Accused

District Attorney John F. Odom of Baton Rouge listens as the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith accuses him of being "co-plotter in the assassination of Huey Long." Odom called the charge a "malicious and deliberate lie" and continued the inquest.

Baer to win by a knockout in one round in the traditional dollar camp pool, that he sold his share for a dime.

Baer will cut down sharply on his boxing from now on, though he plans to put on the gloves every day through Sunday. He will scale about 208 next Tuesday and there is little chance that he will be allowed to fly down to New York with ticket sales indicating a sell-out and the first million dollar gate since Jack Dempsey knocked out Jack Sharkey in 1927.

Ticket speculators, visiting here, are offering $100 each for choice ringside seats.

"CAST INTO EDEN"

BY HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS
Jerome Cram, young naval architect, and a beautiful society girl, named Linda, land on a strange island in the Caribbean after having fled from a quarantined yacht. Their skiff is mysteriously set adrift and there is no other sign of a living human, at first. Intermittently, however, blood-curdling cries come from the jungle. The mystery deepens with the finding of a well-kept though deserted plantation. They take refuge in a small house there. That night, Linda's slip is torn off her by some unseen creature and again the eerie scream is heard. Linda, frightened, insists that Jerome stay near her. "Night before last you couldn't bear the prospect of having me aboard the same yacht with you," he says, ironically, "and now you insist on having me in the same house."

CHAPTER XIII
Nothing happened, to disturb their slumber unless it was a certain lack of comfort and then the early morning chill. The latter woke Jerome at dawn. He edged away without rousing Linda and went out into the fresh and fragrant morning.

In the hope of sighting some sign that might be within signaling distance, he went down the cool dark tunnel of the ravine to the beach. The day was breaking suddenly as it does in the tropics, and the wide open still expanse of sea was serene but desolate. Jerome felt that they should really camp on the other side of the island in the hope of attracting the attention of some passing vessel. The ship courses were not far. But they had no means of making a shelter and Linda would not give up the sanctuary of the house with its unknown uncouth creatures prowling about.

He bathed, gathered a few shell fish, and went back up the little stream to the cool fresh beauty spot. As he came under the ledge he heard Linda's voice speaking in coaxing cajoling tones and thought she must be making friends with the macaw. The big brilliant bird had held himself aloof as if resenting their presence, like the terrifying beast of the night before, whatever it might be.

He clambered up and saw Linda sitting on the edge of the porch. What claimed his attention was a round little beast squatting on the turf four or five yards in front of her. It was partly turned away from him and at first glance he could not determine its species. Linda was trying to coax it closer with lumps of sugar. As Jerome watched she tossed a lump toward the little animal that reached out its long arm and snatched it, then started to nibble and suck at it, never taking its eyes from her. Jerome, watching with only his head and shoulder above the ledge, saw then it was a little ape—a chimpanzee he thought.

As he continued to watch there came a rustle from a thick clump of bamboo. Jerome caught his breath. Another animal appeared. It was of the same species but larger. That would be the mother. For a moment it stood half crouching, long arms extended and muscles on the ground. Its eyes were flickering from Linda, who crouched suddenly, to the little ape in front of her. Linda did not move.

As if unable to overcome its greed and envy, the newcomer crossed the intervening space in a series of bounds and grabbed the piece of sugar from the smaller ape. There was a brief scuffle and angry chattering of clucks and squeals. Jerome thought he understood what had puzzled him. It looked as if the naturalist had imported some chimpanzees that had the freedom of the island and bred there. This would account for everything that could be carried off having been so carefully put away. But it did not account for the big creature of which they had caught a glimpse making off from the old ruined tower.

There emerged a gorilla so huge and forbidding that Jerome's heart missed a beat. The monster stood watching Linda.

This mystery seemed then to be answered. Something came crashing through the denser growth to the right of the bamboos. There emerged a creature so huge and forbidding that Jerome's heart missed a beat and then began to pound. He saw that it was a full grown gorilla.

It stood for a moment nearly erect, watching Linda. And as she did not move it drew near the scuffling and dealt the larger a swinging cuff that knocked it to one side. It then picked up the baby that straddled one hip and reached up for a pendulous breast. The whole performance was so grotesquely human that Jerome would have laughed if it had not been for the great size of the mother and the vexed, suspicious expression on the face she turned to Linda, precisely as if to say, "What do you mean by giving my baby sugar?"

Linda did not budge. She said in a placating tone, "Don't take it so hard, old girl. It won't hurt him. Have a piece yourself," and she tossed her a lump of sugar.

Jerome had never felt so great a rush of admiration for any display of cool nerve and courage. The big she-gorilla made a grimace that bared her teeth. It might have been either a demonstration of defiance, hostility, or an amiable gorilla smile. She swung down, snatched the sweet morsel, sniffed at it, then began to munch it. Jerome was thinking, "That settles it. This naturalist has imported not chimpanzees from South America but gorillas from Africa." Then suddenly as if she had made concession enough the mother gorilla let out a few resonant chatters that might have been "Good day and thanks," swung round, dealt her larger offspring another maternal cuff, and bounded off into the thicket carrying her baby, with the little boy leaping along beside her. As they disappeared Jerome hauled himself up and hurried to where Linda had sunk down on the porch.

"My knees won't get me up," she said.

"My legs feel stuffed with cotton, too."

"So that's the sort of neighbors we have."

"Yes, it was the old man we saw yesterday in my shirt, darn him. It was he that paid us the call last evening, thumping his chest before

"Buried Alive" for 90 Days

"Buried alive" for 90 days, Gloria Graves, 20-year-old Ocean Park, Cal., girl, was brought to the surface after living underground, covered with five tons of earth, since June 15. She was provided with a radio and telephone and fed from the surface. Her feat was claimed to be a record of its kind, surpassing previous one 39 days.

asking us, like the macaw, what the hell we wanted here."

"There may be a whole tribe of them," Linda said.

"Possibly. I suppose she has a baby every year and that mounts up. There's no telling how long they've been here."

"But, Jerry, aren't they terribly dangerous?"

"No. The director of the Washington Zoo told me once that tame gorillas are docile and good-natured."

"Gorillas? Is that what they are?"

"Must be. The lady was nearly six feet tall and weighed close to four hundred pounds. And her husband will be bigger still."

"Then he didn't have on your shirt."

"I guess that was the Crown Prince. I see now how easy it was for him to cram the bell clapper into my shoe."

HOME-MAKING HELPS

Card Table Dining Hints

The recent article on card table dining has brought enthusiastic comments as well as requests for a further review of this most intriguing type of service.

Many hostesses don't seem to care for buffet parties. They say that their dining room table won't accommodate more than six or eight. And now card table service offers a pleasing solution to the problem. Most of us can call upon neighbors and friends for the loan of the tables. Then we can shove the dining room table down to one end of the room and dress the card tables in linen that ties up with the cloth on the big table.

They can be set for brunch, dinner or late supper. Of course, it must be confessed that this type of service has its limitations, but this is more than compensated for by the fact that service is easy, table settings are simple, and there are fewer dishes to wash.

Apart from these important considerations, card table service makes for happy informality and plenty of fun. If your guests are not well acquainted with each other, this manner of entertaining is guaranteed to make grand new friendships. All of which means that the party will be voted a huge success.

Rules for Service

Now we will discuss some of the cardinal rules or points needed for this type of service. First of all, for the table coverings, it is a good rule to use plain backgrounds for figured or flower patterned china. With patterned coverings the glass and china should be plain. Never use doilies when setting card tables. The coverings should be in keeping with the type of meal and the china used.

There should be a centerpiece if possible, but it should be quite small. Quaint little flower pots, glass posies, or slender flower containers would be nice. Another idea is a small dish of fruit, nuts or candles, or a small salad bowl, gay and colorful. Or else amusing little figures, something that might tip up with the idea of the party. These should not be too low, otherwise it would throw the setting out of alignment. For the glassware there should be a water glass or a glass for iced beverages. Not more than one wine glass should be permitted and this should be in keeping with the type of meal and china selected. Each cover is made up of a place plate to hold the salad plate or casserole for the main course. For dinner this first course is replaced by the dinner plate, which is served in the kitchen. Bread and butter plates would make the setting too crowded.

Sheriff Rules On County Prisoners

LISBON, Sept. 19.—Prisoners committed to the county jail in default of payment of fines for violation of village and city ordinances will be refused admission to the county jail, according to an order issued by the county commissioners to Sheriff Frank Ballantine.

Recently the commissioners, following a suggestion made by state examiners now working on county records, notified village and city mayors that unless a contract was perfected whereby the villages and cities would pay the county $1 a day for board and keep of prisoners, no inmates would be cared for at the expense of the county when committed for violation of local ordinances.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. — Arnold Belcher, an East Kingston cameraman, snapped a picture of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt with the same camera with which he photographed his father during his administration as President. Belcher has photographed five other presidents with the same camera.

THIS FARM MUST BE SOLD ON ACCOUNT OF THE DEATH OF ITS OWNER

Here is One of the Best 85-Acre Farms in Columbiana County. This farm is known as the Edgar Satterthwait farm and has always been farmed by very good farmers. No crops sold off the farm. At one time, this farm carried 32 head of cattle and 4 head of horses. This farm will grow anything and is wonderful for alfalfa. They are now harvesting alfalfa. It is located about 3 miles south of Salem on a good hard road. Has 7-room house with water in the house. Good large cow barn, which is strictly sanitary with drinking cups, stanchions for 30 head. Nice large straw shed with water in it. The horse barn is separate and is planned nicely with boxed hay shoots to the mangers. Fine milk house and tool shed and I am offering you this wonderful farm for just $4,500. I would like very much to have you come in and I will prove to you that this is one of the best farms that you have ever walked over. It lays ideal and there is no waste land. This farm should sell for twice what I am asking for it. See me at once as it will soon be in the hands of new owners.

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

ONE HUNDRED and thirty-nine years ago, George Washington made his farewell address. It is "mid-Victorian" to drag in George Washington now, when so many are prepared to write a better Constitution than the one he signed. Nevertheless, some of the old-fashioned, may tolerate a reminder that in his farewell address George Washington said:

"It is our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world."

Also, with apologies to pacifists and high-spirited young college gentlemen who say they would not fight under any circumstances, you are reminded that George Washington said in 1790:

"To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace."

THE UNITED STATES celebrated the birthday of the national Constitution yesterday. Some would like to change that Constitution in a fashion to let every bright genius carry out his ideas regardless of fundamental law. But, it is hardly necessary to worry about that.

Those inclined to worry might recall Van Loon's description of eternity. He shows a giant rock, much bigger than Gibraltar, and a small bird coming once in a thousand or ten thousand years to rub its beak on the rock.

The time that it would take the bird to destroy the rock entirely would be one moment in eternity. It will take about as long, probably, for the anti-Constitution bird to get rid of that ancient rock.

IF MUSSOLINI can be scared by British gestures, he will be scared, with England sending her great battleships to the Gibraltar harbor.

Other battleships and thousands of soldiers are sent to her Island of Malta, and, imitating real war, she is putting "submarine bombs" in the Gibraltar harbor on the assumption that wicked Mussolini might send submarines to blow up her battleships; and that is exactly what he WOULD do, if it came to war.

THAT ENGLAND will permit actual war between England and Italy seems improbable. The English are on their feet, industrially and otherwise, while we puzzle over our twelve millions idle.

Once in a war with Italy, England would need as many billions as she could scrape together, and this time she and her allies would not borrow the money in the United States, probably.

WE DO get things done with all our theorizing. For instance, the postoffice will soon issue a special three-cent stamp commemorating the completion of Boulder Dam in Nevada.

The stamp might, but will not, set forth the fact that without Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, and the Hearst newspapers, there would not be any Boulder Dam in Nevada. However, when a thing is done, it doesn't matter much who does it.

HAILE SELASSIE says he has practically given up hope of a peaceful solution, and Ethiopia will fight with utmost courage and tenacity.

Before the emperor's palace forty-eight hours earlier, thousands of Ethiopians had howled, yelled demanding arms, screaming "We want war," and doing war dances so wild that police confiscated the moving pictures.

That may have influenced the emperor, although he knows that in this war, war dances, originally invented to arouse ferocity in the dancer and fear in the enemy, will not count.

The Universal Service correspondent, talking to the Ethiopian emperor, noticed his "marvelously small and shapely, almost woman-like hand," a different hand from Mussolini's.

CHANCELLOR HITLER discards the old German flag, three stripes red, white, black, for the swastika, one of the most ancient symbols in the world, NOT connected with Germany or Germans. The swastika is particularly far from being Aryan; Egyptians and very early Greeks used it.

Old Germans that won their iron crosses under the old German flag will regret seeing it hauled down. It is safe to predict, for their comfort, that it will be hauled up again, soon.

FOR SCENARIO writers, here is something. A professional baseball

Plane, Principals In Death of Ball Player

A melodramatic fight in an airplane high over Toronto, Canada, resulted in the death of Len Koencke, 31, outfielder of the Brooklyn National League baseball team. The plane in which the fatal fight occurred is pictured, below, with a damaged under-carriage. William J. Mulqueeny, top right, pilot of the plane, asserted he was forced to hit the baseball player over the head with a fire extinguisher in order to quiet Koencke. Arrow indicates torn sleeves of coat of Irwin Davis, top left, Detroit parachute jumper, who asserted this was caused by Koencke biting him.

player, Koencke, outfielder for whom Brooklyn paid $75,000, was sent home because his game no longer "clicked." In Detroit, he rented W. J. Mulqueeny's airplane, taking as guest a parachute jumper.

High in the air, says the pilot, "Koencke seemed to go crazy. Tried to jerk the controls away from me."

Koencke and the parachute jumper had been fighting previously in the cabin of the plane. Pilot Mulqueeny let go the controls, while he picked up a heavy fire extinguisher, hit Koencke on the head and killed him.

News reels gentlemen will never cease regretting that they had nobody "grinding" on that plane.

PALMETTO, GA., reports Negro tenant farmers selling their salt pork and eating chickens instead, because today's prices for pork are higher than for chickens.

The drought, lack of feed, and the professor who invented the idea of killing mamma pigs before the little pigs were born are highly appreciated by Georgia's "hog-raisers."

WESTFIELD, Mass.—Mrs. Alice Burke, former grammar school teacher, was a student at Westfield high school this year. She takes typewriting, stenography and book-keeping, and has classes with pupils she once taught.
